

Vermont Property Assessor Certification Program for Listers and Assessors

JUNE 2022

Listers and assessors perform the vital functions of receiving, collecting, and analyzing data to estimate the value of property within a given municipality for property tax purposes. Your job is to ensure that valuations are comparable across properties, resulting in a fair and equitable assessment which is important to the property owners, municipality, and the state. To assist with this important function, the Division of Property Valuation and Review of the Vermont Department of Taxes (PVR) administers and certifies the Vermont Property Assessor Certification Program (VPACP) for Listers and Assessors. This handbook will help you understand and navigate the program requirements and the application process to become certified.

Frequently Asked Questions

What do listers/assessors do?

Listers and assessors receive, collect, and analyze data to estimate the value of property within a given municipality as of April 1 of each year for property tax (ad valorem) purposes.

Who employs listers/assessors?

In Vermont, a lister is an official elected by the citizens of a municipality in which the lister resides, while an assessor is hired or appointed by a municipality. Both listers and assessors are compensated by the municipality. Some assessors work full-time for a given municipality, while others may work part-time at one or several different municipalities.

Under what authority does PVR certify listers and assessors?

The Division of Property Valuation and Review (PVR), a division of the Vermont Department of Taxes, grants certification to listers and assessors under the authority found in 32 V.S.A. §3436.

Is this a required program? Must I have a designation to work in ad valorem property valuation in Vermont?

No, this is a voluntary program to encourage and recognize professionalism and competency in being a municipal assessing official.

Why are there four levels of certification?

PVR recognizes that there are different assessment assignments, and municipalities have different levels of difficulty and complexity. Therefore, the program ranks the levels of development and educational achievement to accommodate these variations. Everyone is encouraged to attain the highest level of certification believed to provide the skills necessary to be an effective municipal assessing official.

What is required to obtain certification?

For each level of certification, when you meet all requirements of the Vermont Property Assessor Certification Program (VPACP) for Listers and Assessors, submit an application Form AC-304, with all supporting documentation and course completion certificates, a current résumé with relevant work experience, and mail all documents to:

Vermont Department of Taxes
Division of Property Valuation and Review
133 State Street
Montpelier, VT 05633

What are the courses and how are they offered?

The required courses are provided through various educational venues, such as the International Association of Assessing Officers (IAAO), Vermont Assessors and Listers Association (VALA), and Property Valuation and Review (PVR), and others. Class levels range in terms of difficulty, time commitment, and cost. Some classes include a pass/fail exam at the end, while others are completed through attendance only. If a pass/fail exam is included, then you must receive a certificate of completion (not attendance).

When and where is training offered?

Assessment courses are offered throughout the year at many different venues or online. Near the beginning of each calendar year, PVR will publish an education schedule of the courses to be sponsored that year. Most are offered on an annual basis, but some of the IAAO course offerings are on a three-year cycle. The schedule and registration form can be found on the Vermont Department of Taxes' website and on the Vermont Assessors and Listers Association's website.

How much do these courses cost?

Courses hosted by PVR are offered at no charge to currently practicing listers and assessors. Those offered by partner organizations are eligible for reimbursement under the state's lister education fund. You must submit a grant application and be pre-approved before attending the training. Proof of payments must be submitted after attendance. Registration processing fees paid to VALA are not refundable through the grant.

Can any other coursework be substituted for these particular courses?

Yes. There are many institutions that provide similar or equivalent academic level courses. The final decision rests with PVR and is not subject to further appeal. A detailed explanation of how a course is comparable must accompany the application. If you have any question as to whether a course will be accepted please contact PVR.

Can experience other than assessing be substituted for the experience requirement?

Yes, appraisal experience which can be documented may substitute for lister and assessor experience. You should include detailed information in your résumé with contact information for verification.

After I get my certification, do I need further education?

Yes. Certification under 32 V.S.A. §3436\(c\) is valid for a three-year period. Once certified, you will need to complete 10 Continuing Education (CE) credit hours within the next three years to recertify when the designation expires. This may include course work completed for a higher designation level. You will also be required to submit a renewal application, Form AC-305, available on the Department's website.

What if I am already certified through the previous PVR Vermont Property Evaluators program (VPE)? May I be grandfathered into a level?

Yes. In the past if you received the VPE designation, you may apply for Level 2 by submitting an application and attaching a copy of the certificate issued at the time of the designation. You still will be obligated to meet any additional requirements such as IAAO workshop 171 and Data Collection. If you have already taken either or both courses, attach course completion certificates. If you qualify for any additional levels, note the certificate and provide documentation of additional qualifications.

May I skip a certification level by completing requirements of a higher level?

PVR may consider substitutions of equivalent courses on a case-by-case basis.
